

What are CLCs?

Many students are seeking an alternative to the traditional route of earning a high school diploma. The performance-based diploma at the Greenbush Community Learning Centers may be just the alternative students are seeking.

The Community Learning Centers have been developed by Greenbush and area school districts in an effort to provide an alternative education for students who have dropped out of school.

A motivated student can conceivably complete the coursework in much less time than in a traditional classroom.

A Second Opportunity for a High School Diploma

We offer classes that are tailored to meet the individual needs of our students.

We have flexible hours to accommodate busy schedules.

Change Your Future!

The Geary County Learning Center is a program geared primarily toward persons 18 years of age and older who want to earn a high school diploma. The Center is also for those students currently nearing the completion of high school, but having a difficult time completing credits on time. This unique program offers a supportive environment and flexible schedules for people of all ages.

In this unique setting, students will work to complete standard academic curriculum using computer-based course instruction and applications supplied by the Center. Each will advance at his or her own pace with teacher assistance when needed.

A motivated student can conceivably complete the coursework in much less time than in a traditional classroom. This is because the instruction is highly focused and the student may spend as much time on a given subject per day as they prefer. Upon completion of all necessary credits, a diploma is issued from the individual's sponsoring high school.

The only requirement for participation in this program is time and effort. Students need only to maintain a good attendance record and complete the state and local credit requirements to receive a diploma.

Let us help you finish what you've started!
